Councilman Rheutan First To File; Asks Re-Election

City Auditor Karl Webster To Run Again; Candidates Active In Other Parts of County

Charles Rheutan of 252 Jennings ave., today became the first to toss his hat into the ring for the city's political campaign when he filed with the board of elections as a Republican candidate for re-election as councilman-at-large. Rheutan had previously been mentioned as a majority candidate.

City Auditor Karl Webster said today he would file within a couple of days for the August 8 primary election. Other municipal candidates are expected to file their petitions soon since the deadline for filing is 9:30 p. m. June 9.

Already, however, attorneys Henry Reese and W. Edmund Peters have indicated they would be Republican candidates for the city solicitor nomination. Either Atty. Gen. Loefer, incumbent, or his brother, Max Caplan, is expected to run.

At Lisbon today Mayor G. Cecil Rauch, Republican, now serving his fourth term as mayor of the county seat, announced he would again be a candidate.

Primaries will be conducted in Salem, East Palestine, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Leetonia and Columbiana.

Washingtonville, Rogers, New Waterford and Hanoerton, which fall to boast large enough populations for primaries, will nominate officials by petition on non-partisan tickets.

Numerous candidates have filed to date in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Palestine. Mayoralty candidates at the Pottery City include former Mayor O. Earl Green and O. J. Herrington. George A. Selvey and O. B. Kessel have filed for the mayor post at Wellsville, which Mayor Howard L. Kelley will vacate.

Walter A. Hunston, Republican incumbent, has tossed his hat into the ring in East Palestine's mayoral race.

EUROPEAN WAR NOT JUSTIFIED, DUCE DECLARES

No Problems Big Enough Or Acute Enough for Fighting

"AXIS" LEADERS ON INSPECTIONS

Polish War Minister Reaches Paris For Conversations

(By Associated Press) Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini toured their frontier districts bordering France today, as Polish and French general staff officers met in Paris for consultations.

Mussolini dedicated a new plant of the vast Fiat works, makers of Italian automobiles, tanks, airplane motors, machine-guns and other war equipment, at Turin, Italy.

Signalling the start of his tour yesterday, Il Duce told 50,000 spectators, who alternated their cheers for him with jeers for France, that "the great democracies" were warring against Italy and Germany on economic grounds.

War Not Justified He declared no "problems big enough or acute enough to justify a war" existed in Europe but urged that if "knots in European politics" did not call for the sword they should be "untied once and for all because sometimes a hard reality is preferable to a long uncertainty."

His address was regarded generally as moderate and pacific although diplomatic circles in Paris read between the lines an urgent notice to France to yield to Fascist colonial aspirations at her expense. Il Duce's indirect reference to the "French-Italian issue again evoked the crowd's cries of "Tunisia!" and "Savoy!"

The fuhrer and his staff, starting their inspection near Aachen, on the Belgian frontier, caused some quarters to believe there was more than coincidence that he and his axis partner should make such trips at the same time.

Hitler was said to be planning an inspection of fortifications also in the east after assuring himself that everything is secure along the formidable "Meuse" line facing France and Switzerland.

Polish Chief In Paris Polish War Minister General Tadeusz Kasprzycki arrived in Paris for military consultations with members of the French general staff in which, French sources said, they would discuss details of the British-French pledges to help Poland defend her independence.

In Moscow, the Soviet Russian government newspaper Izvestia gave emphatic approval to the British-Turkish mutual assistance accord.

Soviet Russia still is a potential member of the line-up in which Britain and France now have included Poland, Roumania, Greece and Turkey.

The British foreign office announced it had instructed Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, to protest against the landing of Japanese marines in the international settlement at Amoy, China.

Miss Lillian Schroeder, school nurse, at Reilly, and a special nurse, Miss Hazel Linn, at Columbia, are checking the throats of the children daily. "This enables us to detect any new cases 24 hours in advance," Supt. Kerr explained. No new cases were found today.

The spread of scarlet fever at Reilly school was caused when a Lisbon road mother unwittingly sent her sick child to school, rather than notify the board of health. The home is now under quarantine.

Indian Girl, Five, Becomes Mother Of 6-Pound Baby

(By Associated Press) LIMA, Peru, May 15—An Indian girl said by physicians to be five years old has given birth to a six-pound baby at the Lima Maternity hospital—to the amazement of 60 physician witnesses.

The baby, a boy, was delivered in a 35-minute Caesarean operation yesterday morning. The infant was said to be well-formed and today both the child and his mother were reported by the hospital to be in excellent condition.

The child mother, Lina Medina, was born Sept. 23, 1934, according to her parents, and that is the date on her birth certificate.

But Dr. Hipolito Larrabure, chief surgeon and director of the Lima Maternity hospital, said the birth certificate apparently was in error because Lina still has her milk teeth and the molars are just emerging—the dental status of a child more than five but under six years of age.

The girl is one of the children of an Indian farming family living near Pisco, a cotton port south of Lima.

The mother reported that Lina started to menstruate when she was only three months old, continuing regularly until August 1938.

MINE EMPLOYEE, GUARDSMAN IN FIRST BATTLE

Machine Guns Turn Back 3,000 Men Enroute To Picket Duty

TROOPS GUARDING ROADS, BRIDGES

Non-Union Miner Killed; Jail Brother-In-Law For Slaying

(By Associated Press) HARLAN, Ky., May 15.—Claude Howard of Baxter, a carpenter for the Harlan-Wallins mine, was clubbed over the head with a pistol by a national guardsman today in the first clash between coal miners and state troops protecting workers returning to the pits.

Howard said he told the trooper he was enroute to his home but the militiaman refused to allow him to cross a bridge and in an argument struck him on the head, inflicting a deep gash.

Col. Roy W. Easley of the national guard said he had received reports that Howard backed into a soldier with his automobile and attempted to run down another trooper when he was struck.

Turn Back 3,000 Miners Guardsmen with machine guns turned back 3,000 coal miners, enroute to mines for picket duty. There were reports that miners in cars were roaming throughout the county.

No coal will be brought from the mines until tomorrow or Wednesday, operators said. Those who wanted to work without a union contract were busy checking and repairing pit trackage and timbering.

The miners turned back by the guardsmen milled about the streets of Harlan apparently waiting word from their leaders.

Militiamen were sent to mines throughout the county during the night. Machine guns were set up along the roadside and any effort of pickets to gather in large number brought quick orders to disperse.

Col. Roy W. Easley of the state troops said:

"We will allow peaceful picketing in reasonable numbers but will not permit the massing of men at any one point."

The colonel warned that if the men continued "to loiter about Harlan streets they will be given military escort out of town."

MAPLE STREET MAY GET SEWER

Faving, However, Is Problematical Unless Property Owners Take Action on Assessments

City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff said today that work probably would be started shortly on the installation of a storm water sewer on Maple st., one of the streets listed on the city's WPA blanket street project, but that the actual paving of the thoroughfare was questionable due to failure of property owners to pay their assessment costs.

Twenty-seven persons signed a petition requesting the street improvement, but only five have paid assessment fees at the city auditor's office, Barckhoff said.

The engineer called attention to a recent ruling of city council which stipulates that, in the future, at least 90 per cent of the assessment costs must be paid before a street job can begin.

Meanwhile work is progressing favorably on three other streets now being improved under the blanket project. The nearest job completed is W. Fifth st., between N. Ellsworth and Jennings avenues, where the base has been constructed, preparatory to laying the final asphalt top.

Grading is about finished on Depot rd., and Prospect st., the engineer reported. The culvert on the Depot road, which carries storm water to the county ditch, has been completed by city and county workers.

Service Director Frank Wilson will receive bids up till noon Tuesday for slag material needed for the street paving. The city was getting a good bid of slag material from its WPA stone quarry project on the Egypt road until the WPA closed all county stone quarry projects, except one near East Liverpool.

MINORITIES WITHIN MINORITIES

Easing of the coal situation without using the threat of federal power implied when President Roosevelt drew a deadline for settlement is probably the most favorable solution possible under the circumstances.

Under the terms of settlement neither side can claim victory. United Mine Workers can point to theoretical gains in its contracts with certain operators more anxious to resume production than to resist the union, but its dispute with the main group of operators in the Appalachian area remains unsettled.

It is interesting as public information to learn that operators, themselves, are not a solid front but are divided in opinion as to the justice of United Mine Workers' demands for complete control of workers in the industry. There are minorities within both minorities participating in negotiations.

For the time being, coal has escaped nationalization, which is what some union spokesmen would like to obtain. Preliminary steps in that direction—the bituminous coal commission—have been partly retraced, furthermore, in the President's second reorganization plan changing the commission from an independent agency to status as a division of the department of the interior. The coal industry is probably no worse off than it was before the strike, which in these days of expanding federal control under the excuse of regulating everything under the sun isn't to be disregarded.

THE CHIP

Danzig—the free city—lends itself to the impression that Germany has been slowed down by an old American custom, in a European setting.

Danzig is being used by Poland, whose nationalism is fully as cocky as the nationalism of Germany, as a chip on the shoulder. If Chancellor Hitler wants to start something, all he needs to do is knock off the chip.

Danzig, though important to the Poles, isn't worth fighting for, except as a symbol of Polish determination. It has been obscured in the last few weeks that the city does not belong to Poland, but is independent. Poland wants it to continue to be independent. Germany wants to control it.

But Germany, after many weeks of threatened action, hasn't dared to make an overt move. The Polish government as recently as last Saturday warned that any attempt to alter the present state of affairs would cause immediate action by its military forces.

If Munich was a turning point because it marked retreat by Britain and France in the face of a challenge, Danzig also has become a turning point. It is the chip which Adolf Hitler dares not touch to maintain his prestige.

MORE PORRIDGE, PLEASE

As the day of judgment on the state's biennial budget bill approaches, legislative hearts are being made to bleed for the plight of tax-supported colleges and universities.

They are being asked to take a little less porridge in the interests of making the supply hold out, but on their part they are quite sure this is a great injustice to them and to those they serve.

So what they would like to arrange is to get their customary helping and to let someone else take correspondingly less. It is difficult to resist such a plea because it is made, as always, in behalf of youth—which must be served.

Before legislators capitulate, however, they should examine what has happened to endowed colleges and universities, all of which have been losing income at a prodigious rate while interest on their investments has been shrinking—but apparently still staying in business and doing a passably good job of educating the nation's youth.

PROTESTING TOO MUCH

James J. Pope, former Idaho senator who was rescued from retirement to become a director of TVA, made a speech about that important agency a few days ago.

By way of introduction he said the power program of TVA is not of primary importance. Improvement of navigation and flood control, he insisted, are the authority's principal purposes. Electricity is a by-product.

Whereupon Mr. Pope delivered a speech 12 pages long intended to soothe the jangled nerves of investors in utility stocks, who don't give a hoot about navigation and not more than half a hoot about flood control but have been lying awake nights about the effect of the by-product.

It must seem to them that the new director is protesting too much about something he thinks isn't of primary importance.

THE HUMORIST

Martin L. Davey and Jim Braddock are hitting the comeback trail together, one to brighten up the boxing ring, the other "to turn the rascals out of the statehouse."

Ohio's recent governor is capable of doing some brightening, himself. As the years have rolled by he has become master of the art of humor in politics. It's all too rare.

Thus, he says after a vacation in Florida it is easier to work for votes in Ohio than to catch fish off the sunny peninsula. He promises to do his level best to clean out the statehouse "from top to bottom," neglecting in the best good humor possible the salient point that his successor has been doing the same thing since last January. Sometimes it seems possible that Mr. Davey passed up a great career as a gag man to become an in and out at politics.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, May 16

Conflicting planetary aspects rule this day. While there may be fair prospects for new ventures and for dealing with those in authority, there is also an indication of obstacle and delay. An aggravating situation may incite reckless, turbulent and impetuous conduct, which may complicate rather than solve the difficulty. Elders may interfere and agitating circumstances may have domestic reactions. Self-restraint and composure may bring profitable change.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have the power to make or mar the fortunes of the year ahead. Strife and impulsive or rash moves may arouse hostility from elders or from the domestic circle. With restraint, tact and calm deliberation there may be cooperation from superiors. New ventures should thrive. Change of benefit is probable.

A child born on this day may be wayward, headstrong and impulsive, making it difficult to deal with. Its over-strenuous and ardent nature may provoke hostility unless it be given early training and discipline. Its forceful nature and fine resources should be directed into constructive channels.

DISCOUNTS BULL MARKET

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Economist Leonard P. Ayres today discounted possibility a new bear market is under way "as many students of the stock market have concluded recently," asserting such a development would be "most unusual" in the history of market movements.

His monthly business review described the fear of war as the most important influence shaping the course of business and asserted spring business had been "fairly good" in the United States.

The decline in stock prices from the averages of last November to those of April amounts to 13 per cent, the Cleveland Trust company vice president pointed out, observing:

"This is not an exceptional decline for a five-month period, and hardly sufficient to afford convincing evidence that the present downward movement is in reality the beginning of a new bear market."

Ayres described bright spots of manufacturing as shipbuilding, aviation, machine tools, chemicals, and most parts of the automobile industry. He asserted reports of 305 leading industrial concerns showed a profit of about $206,000,000 during the first quarter of the year, more than twice as much as in last year's corresponding period.

The economist's statement pointed out, however, business activity as measured by the physical volume of industrial production was 24.2 per cent below the normal level in January, 26.5 per cent below in February, 28.7 per cent below in March, and 29 per cent below in April. He said the bituminous coal shutdown caused most of the April decrease.

Any assumptions war in Europe might mean prosperity in America are unjustified, Ayres asserted. The World War, he said, imposed hardships on people having fixed incomes or salaries and on workers whose wages were increased less rapidly than prices advanced. He declared more firms failed in 1914, 1915 and 1916 than in any three previous years.

Examinations Are Valuable From Standpoint Of Doctor

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE GENERAL overhauling idea, the regular health audit or annual physical examination, has been advocated mostly on the grounds that it will help to keep the individual from developing the chronic diseases of adult life. I never subscribed very much to this because I doubted whether any really extensive prevention of such diseases could be accomplished so simply. But another angle of the situation is developed by Dr. Reginald Fitz, of Boston.

Dr. Fitz, after 15 years experience with regular examinations of the same patients, comes to the conclusion that these examinations are valuable not so much for the future of the patient as for the future of medical science.

He has found these regular recurrent examinations interesting because he has been able to watch chronic diseases develop and put his finger on the moment when the bodily mechanism suddenly changed from normality to a disease process.

Back to Normalcy And, on the other hand, he has watched diseased organs slowly go back to normalcy. For instance, heart disease! The words "heart murmur" frighten people greatly and they ask what is going to be the outcome of this sinister sounding situation. Well, Dr. Fitz has found several youngsters with a bad murmur, who, instead of going on to something worse, got better, to the extent that the murmur entirely disappeared.

We are recommended by the annual periodical health doctors that the diseases that can be most easily forestalled from a serious termination are cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes and hardening of the arteries.

Sudden Onset Dr. Fitz's conclusions about cancer included this point: That the impressive feature was the suddenness of onset without any preliminary or insidious onset. In other words, between two annual health examinations a cancer may develop very suddenly. It would be missed on the first examination. In such cases the examinations gives a false feeling of security.

About tuberculosis he feels somewhat more confident, but more study is needed.

Diabetes is a disease of slow and insidious onset. It is easily marked by the presence of sugar in the urine, and even if that has existed for a year the treatment is hopeful, even in late or far advanced cases.

Too Insidious About hardening of the arteries, what Dr. Fitz says confirms my own observation exactly. He says: "I have made a conscientious effort to pick out even one case in which I could truthfully say that hardening of the arteries had developed under observation. I must confess that the onset has seemed so insidious that it has been beyond my power to recognize it."

The same thing is true of high blood pressure, and what is the difference because what is anybody going to do to help it if it is found? If anybody can give a good answer to that question I will be glad to hear it.

I have seldom mentioned these questions in this column, preferring to devote myself to the diseases which are preventable, mostly infectious diseases in the young, who are more worth saving.

Questions and Answers M. W.: "Is it harmful to take a teaspoonful of salt in warm water before breakfast? I don't think the salt would hurt, but I've been wondering if a teaspoonful is too much?"

Answer—A teaspoonful is a good deal about five times the daily requirement.

A. L. B.: "Will grapefruit, lemons and oranges cause uric acid and rheumatism?"

Answer—No.

"The DOCTOR" by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

CHAPTER XVIII

Chris was still calm the next morning. The nervous tremor had gone from his hands, and he shaved and dressed with unusual care. Katie, in the lower hall, saw him coming down and inspected him critically.

"What is it? A party?"
"You could call it that. I go on duty at the hospital today."
"And what might that mean?"
"All sorts of things you wouldn't like, my child. Two or three operations, for one thing."

"And you're going to do them?"
"I am indeed," he told her solemnly.

"Then Heaven help the victims!" she said, and slammed out the front door.
But he had other things than Katie to think of that morning. To the eye he might have been any young businessman walking briskly through the bracing winter air on his way to an office somewhere or other. To himself, however, he was taking the first step toward a larger and fuller life, a life not only of service but of gratified ambition; of going on and up, taking some time in Europe, being called in consultation, reading papers before the medical society.

So grandiose had been his thoughts that he was shocked when, a block or so from the hospital, he found himself with a bad attack of nerves. His heart was beating wildly, his hands were damp with sweat. He stopped and steadied himself.

"Good Lord," he thought, "I'm scared. Scared as a kid."
He looked at his hands, which were shaking, and felt that his knees were uncertain under him. He was even slightly nauseated. He lit a cigarette and went on, and the tobacco sickened him still more, and at last he threw it away.

"A fine surgeon I am!" he thought disgustedly. "Sick. Sick to my stomach. I'd look fine, losing my breakfast. What's the matter with me anyhow?"
He straightened and walked on, but he did not entirely recover from his funk until he reached the hospital. Then suddenly he was himself again. Yes, he was back home, and the hospital reached out and welcomed him. In the office, when he checked in, was his name, new on the board.

The first operation had been scheduled for ten o'clock, and it was almost that now. He found Williams in the hall waiting for him, and they went up together in the elevator. Williams, watching him, wondered if he had any nerves.

He had, it seemed, three cases that morning, and Williams launched into explanations as Chris scrubbed up and got into his coat. Chris listened and nodded. It seemed amazing to him now that he had been afraid of this thing. It was his work. It was to be his life-work. He drew a deep breath and threw out his chest.

The operating room was waiting, motionless and gleaming. It looked like a stage set, with the nurses scattered here and there and Chris the star actor making his entrance. For a moment all movement ceased as faces turned toward him. Then Miss Clarke, the head nurse, moved forward, quiet and competent.

"We're ready, Doctor, and we're all delighted to have you back." He glanced around him. For a time now each year this was to be his kingdom. His word would be law, and these subjects of his in law and white or in white would rush to obey it. But he knew, too, that he was in their hands, as they were in his. They were friendly, these internes and nurses, but where once they had been indulgent, now they would be watchful and critical. It was a closed world, protecting its own, and the staff men did not entirely belong. They came and went, the overlords of this small world, but they belonged outside beyond its walls. There was this knowledge in his eyes when they met Miss Clarke's, and she colored faintly under his quizzical gaze.

"That's very kind of you," he said. "I'll try not to throw things. All right, Williams."

The table was wheeled in, the anesthetist bending over it as it came. To the odors of steam and fresh linen was now added that of ether. The action on the stage accelerated, the characters moved swiftly for a moment. Then, as suddenly as it began, it ended. The movement froze about Chris, about the table, and about his first operation case as a member of the staff. He lifted his heavy head and looked about him. Everything was there. Everybody was ready. He reached out his hand in its rubber glove, and Williams handed him a scalpel.

On a March night toward the end of his first term of service at the hospital Chris sat at the desk in his back office and over a pipe reviewed his situation.

Around him the house was quiet. It exuded the odor of the Walters' old dusty carpets and a faint musty smell of mold from the unventilated cellar below. The problem of the Walters family had not changed. It was what it had been, unsatisfactory and expensive. Katie had discovered the telephone as a means of communication and now spent long periods on it. He would call up his office to find the line busy, bang up the receiver, wait and call again.

Once she was talking to a boy, and he was cut in on the line. Here was a new Katie, coquettish and slightly affected, and he listened to her grimly.

"I don't see how you can say that. I thought I looked terrible. Say, listen, Jim. He's out tonight at a meeting. You can come around if you like. I'll have the front office." He read the riot act to her when he got home that day, but in the end he compromised. She could use the waiting room after office hours in the evening, but it was to be tidy and aired before he came in. In her way she was living up to the agreement, but the room had not it now a consistent aroma of cheap perfume and cheaper cigarettes. Nevertheless he was relieved. Better for her to see boys of her own age than to cherish any silly romantic dream about himself. Well, that was over, thank God.

He would have been shocked had any one told him that night that it was far from over, so far as Katie was concerned. She was growing up. Even he could see that. And she was always somewhere underfoot. But she amused him at times. He treated her as he would treat a child, usually with the facetious cheerfulness she loathed.

"Still pouting, Katie? You'll spoil your mouth, you know."
"It's my mouth, isn't it?"
"Other people have to look at it!"

It was like a battle between them, lighthearted on his part, but a thing of deadly seriousness to her. Alternately she hated and adored him. But at the first opportunity she would be back in the empty office again, touching his old pipe, his office coat, his pen. She would follow this by reading his case records in their filing box, and glance through his books for pictures; for she was intensely and insatiably curious. Chris, coming in, would find things out of place and surmise what had happened, but he felt helpless; and that night, sitting there alone, he dismissed the whole Walters family with a gesture. Good or bad, he had them to feed and shelter and even to clothe. He had them. They could not have him.

Professionally he was doing better than most. He had his city job and the hospital work. He was even solvent, although he had been obliged to sacrifice the suit he needed to buy Katie a winter coat. He grinned at that memory, for a day or so later he had seen Katie in her new finery on the street accompanied by an apparently infatuated youth, and had bought himself a new dollar necktie immediately afterward as a sheer act of self-assertion.

And he was doing well at the hospital. Nothing startling, but substantially well. He had learned a lot and had kept his head and his temper—except for that one time when, about to close an abdomen, the sponge count had been verified, and only his quick eye had discovered the corner of a bit of gauze before it was too late. He had stiffened and looked at the nurse who had made the count.

"Sure of that, are you?"
"Yes, doctor."

"Then you're a fool and a dangerous one at that."
He had pulled out the gauze sponge, and the nurse had had an attack of hysterical crying in the hall. He was still shaking with anger while he finished his work, but later on he had interceded for her with Miss Simpson.

"She'll be safer now than she ever was before," he said. "I lost my temper. I'm sorry about that."

"Better your temper than a patient's," said Miss Nettie dryly.

He loved his work. He had the hands of the born surgeon, both gentle and strong. And, although he was unconscious of it, the dramatic side of the business appealed to him. When at night he rode up in the elevator past the silent floors to the operating room, the sense of being a part of the drama of sheer survival was strong in him. But going home through the night or the gray early morning, weary but content, the exaltation would die, and as he neared the house, he would become once again merely an everyday young man, worrying about coal for the furnace or the rent, and with a feeling that the curtain had rung down on something rather magnificent, and had left him somewhere outside in the dark.

That was the professional side of his life. What about the other?

Somehow, somewhere, the brief intimacy between Beverly Lewis and himself had been lost. For one thing, he had been incredibly busy; and for another, it was the season, and she was popular. He had seen her, of course. Once or twice he had gone to the house in response to a call or a note, but she was never alone. He would go in, very stiff and straight in his old clothes, to the sound of talk and laughter and the cheerful tinkle of ice in glasses. But although she was glad to see him and showed it, even his youth and his good looks could not entirely offset the fact that he was a worker among the drones.

"What? No liquor? Not sick, are you?"
"Working hours," he would say with his disarming smile. "I do my hard drinking at night."

She watched him. He towered

BUSY SCHEDULE FOR STUDENTS

Columbiana High Outlines Activities For Last Two Weeks

COLUMBIANA, May 15.—Columbiana high school students have a busy schedule for the final two weeks of the school year, as follows: May 15, Senior Girl Reserve installation of officers; May 17-18, Senior exams; May 19, Class day program; May 20, district track meet at Poland; May 21, baccalaureate service at Grace Reformed church, Rev. G. S. Strausbaugh, speaker; May 23-24, final exams; May 25, commencement program; May 26, report cards distributed; May 27, state track meet at Columbus.

The monthly meeting of officers of the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Union will be held tonight at Grace Reformed church. The Churchmen's brotherhood will hold the May meeting Wednesday evening. Refreshments will be in charge of O. F. Harrold, Earl Welsh, Byron Snyder, Clark Pfau and Clyde Mauger.

Wednesday Closing Planned
Columbiana stores and business houses will observe the usual Wednesday afternoon closing rules during June, July and August, starting June 7, according to directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The annual party closing the season of the Columbiana Sorosis club will be held at Valley Golf club Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Louis Martin, Los Angeles, Calif., is spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Todd, and other relatives.

A meeting will be held at the school assembly room Wednesday at 8 o'clock for all scout leaders and workers who are 18 years old or over. The purpose of the meeting over their stillness and frivolity like a young girl, but when they found out what he was, they affected to find it slightly humorous.

"A doctor! You don't look like one."

"Why not?"
"Well, where's the good old beard, or whatever it is?"

"Give me time, can't you?"
He was indulgent, like some big mastiff with puppies playing about him, but he was not entirely comfortable among them. It was not only that they disliked illness and therefore his profession, or even that laughing at a thing the mind does not comprehend is one method of overcoming a sense of inferiority.

It was because they had nothing in common with him, or thought so; as if he belonged to a class apart, he thought resentfully. As if he never had played a game of golf, or football at college; as if, indeed, having become a doctor, he had in some strange way become less a man.

Looking back later on, all that he was to see was that he had not been entirely fair to them or to himself; and that the real gulf lay, not in their failure to recognize that medicine was a science—they respected science—but between their frivolity and his own life-and-death obligation to society.

Girls and young women drinking tea or sherry, men with highballs in their hands, some one banging a piano, abstracted couples in corners or on the stairs, and a tall devil-may-care youth called Jerry Ames hanging over Beverly as if she belonged to him—that was his memory of those afternoons at the Lewis house.

will be to form an alumni association. Mr. Boss, a nationally known traveler, of New York city, will be the speaker.

The meeting of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society, scheduled for Wednesday evening, has been postponed until some time in June.

This is the Picture Where You Belong!

It's the pattern—no mistaking that—you'll find plenty of admiring glances following wherever you travel in this stunning Buick.

But what we were shooting for was something more than attention—and mister, look how we hit the bull's-eye!

You try out the driver's seat—it fits. You take hold of the wheel—it seems molded to your hand.

So you ease down on the gas—and pronto, you've got rhythm! You fingertip the wheel—presto! there's control!

You wing down the straightaway, cruise around curves, swoop up the hill. Your car is almost a part of you, your wish is its action!

So, you happily discover, here's where you belong!

It isn't the big and powerful wallop in that big Dynaflex straight-eight alone.

It isn't only the level comfort of soft-coiled BuicCoil Springing. It isn't simply the visibility of those extra 412 square inches.

It's the feel of this great car you'll go for, the way you feel at home!

Now such a car is worth plenty. But this Buick actually costs less than a year ago, less than you think—less than some sixes.

Surely, that leaves nothing else to settle except when you can get delivery. Why not see your Buick dealer and get the answer?

BIG REASONS for PRIVATE LINE TELEPHONE SERVICE

- 1 It's all yours, all of the time.
- 2 You never have to wait to make a call.
- 3 Your friends can reach you immediately unless you are using the line.
- 4 No one can "listen-in" on your conversation.
- 5 You can talk as long as you like without interference.
- 6 You get the most service for your money.

Party line service is as good as we can make it from the equipment and operating standpoint, but we cannot control its usage. Telephones are used more often than they were a few years ago.

Last year, Ohio Bell subscribers made 30,000,000 more local calls than they did the year before. Enjoy the convenience and privacy of PRIVATE LINE SERVICE. It's well worth the difference in cost.

You are cordially invited to visit the Bell System exhibits at the World's Fair in New York City and at the Golden Gate International Exposition, San Francisco.

PREMIER'S WIFE COMPLIMENTED

Example of Part Played
By Women In Success
Of Great Men

She has shared my successes; she has encouraged me when I was despondent; she has advised me in my problems when a needed help.

The Case of Lord Baldwin
Then there is the case of Lord Baldwin, former British premier who passed through New York the other day.

Baldwin's wife has stood beside him throughout his long career, and they are looked upon as a couple very much in love. He once remarked to me with a glow of pride:

"There's one thing about my wife and that is she knows who to keep a secret. You can tell her anything you like with the perfect certainty that it will be safe in her keeping."

We shall be receiving shortly, as our honored guests, King George of England and his queen. That he has been able to fill with so much success the difficult task of kingship, thrust upon him unexpectedly by his brother's abdication, is due in no small part to the help of his Scots wife—and his mother, Dowager Queen Mary.

These two grand women have backed the very different, retiring young monarch through thick and thin. They even helped guide him of his affliction of stammering.

Over in far-off China, Madam Chiang Kai-Shek had more than a bit to do with boosting her husband into the dictatorship.

Window and Boards Drop Out of Tower

A window and some more boards fell from the hose tower at city hall today and firemen, fearful lest the whole thing would come down while they were in it, wished for a fire alarm to call them away from the building.

The leaning tower, which curves out at the top "like a daisy blowing in the wind," as one fireman said, has been bent with age for quite some time, but Fire Chief Vincent Malloy thinks it's really getting serious now.

Calling Service Director Frank Wilson aside, the chief pulled at several boards on one side near the ground. The historic lumber came loose, disclosing nails rusted clear through.

The tower is a part of the city hall building and is used for drying out fire hose.

Now... circus folks, too, are comparing cigarettes this strikingly convincing way...

"JUST watch 'em burn," is the advice smart smokers are giving to cigarette smokers these days. At the right, aerial ace Everett White of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus proves that one leading cigarette burns slower than other brands. The famous star of the high trapeze, Ed Rooney, observes that the winning brand is C-A-M-E-L! Camel's big advantage is in its costlier tobaccos, expertly blended in a cigarette made to burn slowly, completely!

Recently, a group of scientists made this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were tested impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent. Cigarettes of some brands smoked twice as fast as others right from the same pack.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL THE OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos... always slow-burning, cool, mild, with a delightful taste!

Theater Attractions

A rare entertainment treat is offered to filmgoers with the current showing at the State Tuesday and Wednesday of "Pygmalion," filmization of Bernard Shaw's witty and cynical comedy with Leslie Howard in the starring role.

Shaw's famous play makes for superb screen fare with freshness of treatment, scintillating dialogue, compelling drama and exceptional acting performances.

The highly original story of a professor of phonetics who turns a drab Cockney flower seller into a duchess, is presented with a never-fading action, an engaging romantic appeal and a warmth of atmosphere and situations.

Pygmalion, the foreword tells us, was a legendary figure who gave life to the woman of his dreams. Shaw's modern version replaces the hero of mythology with the phonetics professor who takes up a challenge to convert the illiterate flower girl into a reigning beauty.

Through it all he maintains a cold, scientific disregard of the girl's feelings, ignoring the fact that, while he can hold her speech and her manners, he cannot reach her soul. Agast at his callous disregard of her feelings she flees from him, and the professor then discovers that she has bound him to her with bonds far tighter than any he has imposed on her.

Showing for the last time tonight at the state is a delightfully gay comedy, "Midnight," in which Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche are teamed together for the first time. It concerns an American girl's hectic romance with a Paris taxi-driver and a wealthy man about town and her adventures when she crashes international society as a Hungarian baroness.

A deputy sheriff told of having shot a young man on a main street of the city within a block of national guard headquarters, when he refused to submit to arrest for drunkenness. Wound from the loss of blood from wounds in both legs, the man was taken to a hospital.

Cleveland Facing Strike of Truckmen

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Cleveland today faced the threat of a citywide general cartage truck strike June 1.

Members of truck drivers local 407, an AFL affiliate, voted to strike unless new wages demands are met before the expiration of a two-year contract May 31.

The strike would affect about 3,500 men employed by cartage companies handling freight hauling and the bulk of general deliveries. Employees of the long-distance hauling companies would not be affected.

Even before the test between operators and union miners as to strength in this field torn for years by labor strife, the county again lived up to the name "Bloody Harlan."

While national guards troops, ordered here by Gov. A. B. Chandler 557 strong, rolled in on trucks from many towns in the southern end of the state, one non-union miner was killed at Yancey and his brother-in-law jailed for the fatality.

OIL CITY, Pa., May 15.—Ers, one 66 and the other 48 each other for the first time on Mother's day.

Peter Heintz, 66, Oil City, left his parents' home in Germany in 1890 and a few months later, Jacob, was born. Jacob came to America in 1900 and went to the home of a sister in California. The brothers arrived to meet several times but plans were always disrupted.

A trip to the New York World fair brought Jacob from Clara, Calif., to Oil City for long-deferred reunion.

SEEING IS BELIEVING!

Everyone watches Everett White, the daring aerialist (center), intently, as Camels win in his cigarette test. He remarks: "Camel smokers know Camels smoke COOLER and Milder. And any smoker can see one reason why! Look how much slower that Camel burns! And, say, notice how the Camel ash stays on!"

Smoking is BELIEVING!

IF you feel that life owes you a little more fun, try a cigarette made with costlier tobaccos...a Camel! See how Camel's delightful fragrance and taste can brighten you up. Camels are amazingly mild. Cool... easy on your throat... really a matchless blend.

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels... America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

Six Main "Stops" Listed On Route Through Plant

Modern Methods Show Why Paris Is Able to Produce Such Outstanding Dry Cleaning Work

Here's the way the Paris Cleaners clean your clothes so perfectly...the six essential steps that every single garment that's sent to them goes through. The modern method's depicted here show you why and how they are able to produce such outstanding dry cleaning work. And throughout every step, the work is done or supervised by skilled, experienced men who are always striving for perfection. Read the story of cleaning. Then you'll know the answer.

Step Number 1

Spotter
After a thorough inspection on coming from the dry room, your garment is turned over to the "spotter" who removes stains not taken out in the cleaning process. He is a highly skilled and careful worker.

Step Number 2

Cleaning
After your garment is brought in by our route driver, it is inspected for stains and damage. Then it is put into the cleaning machine and cleaned with a gentle, high quality solvent.

Step Number 3

Extractor
From the washer, your garment is brought to the extractor. This machine gently whips the garments around and ejects most of the cleaning fluid by centrifugal force.

Step Number 4

Finishing
Your garment is finished both by pressing machine and by hand. The work is done carefully so as to retain the original shape of the garment. This step restores clothes to a like-new condition once more.

Step Number 5

Check-up
The final step before your garment is returned. It's examined once more here for shape, size, cleanliness and appearance. It makes sure the garment is perfectly cleaned and pressed before you get it!

Step Number 6

The Dryer
Unless your garment is a particular kind of wool, silk or synthetic

USED CAR MART TO OPEN HERE

Grate Completing Plans For Opening This Week

Earl Grate, head of the E. L. Grate Motor company, Ford dealer for this territory, is looking forward with considerable interest to the establishment of his used car mart.

Arrangements are being completed for the opening, this week, of the market on the vacant lot off S. Lundy ave. west, between Pershing and State sts.

used car markets in various parts of the country and, he asserts, they fill a definite need in the automobile world. They not only give the automobile dealer an opportunity to move used car stock which sometimes holds down important floor space for long periods, tying up capital that should be working, but they also bring to the buyer opportunities to procure transportation which otherwise he might never have.

Automobiles will be bought and sold at the Grate used car lot, with Grate's paying cash for the cars bought. Old cars will be taken in trade, of course, in deals of that type.

An excellent line of used automobiles will be presented, giving the buyer a variety that will fit practically any need or purse.

JOHN MONTAGUE TO PLAY IN GOLF MATCH HERE

FAMOUS GOLFER TO PLAY SALEM CLUB SATURDAY

Noted West Coast Links Star To Appear Here In Exhibition

An opportunity to see John Montague, nationally-famous links star, in action is the treat in store for golf fans of the Salem area this week.

The renowned west coast golfer, whose feats of accuracy have amazed golf experts, will test his skill of the Salem club's tough nine-hole course at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Montague will play with George Howard, top-flight pro of the Canton Brooks club, in a match against two of the district's outstanding professionals.

Jack Miskell of the Poland Country club, near Youngstown, who is serving as part-time pro at the Salem club this year, will probably be one of the opponents for the Montague-Howard duo.

Montague will give an instructive talk on golf before the match and will present an exhibition of trick shooting after the 18-hole contest.

Montague is currently preparing to play in the National Open qualifier at Chicago May 22. He recently concluded a successful tour which took him through southern and southwestern parts of the United States, Hawaii, a number of Pacific islands and China.

Immediately upon conclusion of his tour, Montague returned to the Desert Golf club at Palm Springs to begin practice for the summer tournament circuit. Plans for several exhibition matinees in the desert were made at the Desert club where Howard serves as pro during the winter months.

Montague skyrocketed into national prominence more than a year ago when he defeated Bing Crosby in a "grudge" match, using only a rake and hoe. Prior to this performance he had gained fame in the movie colony for his feats of strength and amazing accuracy with golf clubs. He is said to have once bet that he could knock a bird from a telephone wire with a golf ball, then performed the feat.

Despite the air of mystery which has surrounded Montague and caused him to be called "Mysterious Monty", the Californian is a golfer of outstanding ability. Big and powerful, he is an exceedingly long driver and consistently breaks 70.

His schedule of exhibition appearances in Ohio is limited and the Salem course is one of the few he will play.

Eleven games were on the week's schedule, with Northwestern and Chicago each having three tilts booked.

MOTORS HANDED FOURTH DEFEAT

Salem Club Shows Promise In Losing To Stratton, 3-2

The Altoona Motors suffered their fourth straight set-back in the Tri-State Baseball league, but showed promise of developing into a formidable aggregation for the first time this season as they fell before Stratton, 3-2, at Firestone park in Columbus Sunday.

Strengthened by the addition of several veteran players, the Motors turned in their best fielding performance to date by playing practically errorless ball. Only one error was chalked up against the Altoona nine.

Hitting was also improved with the Salem team slapping pitcher Erick of Stratton for eight safe blows. Buster Wukotich, pitching for the Motors, held the Stratton club to seven hits.

The Motors scored once in the second frame and again in the third inning. Stratton, after getting one run in the opening stanza, tied the score in the last half of the third frame and went on to win by scoring once in the fourth inning.

Eddie Pukalski led the Motors hitting, getting two bingles in as many trips to the plate. Burns and Glass each collected two hits for Stratton.

Pitcher Ulrich of Stratton fanned eight Salem batters, while Wukotich struck out six for the Motors.

TIGERS HELPED BY TRADE WITH LEAGUE RIVALS

Season's Biggest Player Swap Stirs Tigers Into Action

By JUDSON BAILEY

It took the biggest swap baseball has had in years to shake the Detroit Tigers out of their sleeping sickness, but they roared like healthy animals when they finally stirred.

Up until Saturday night when they traded Vernon Kennedy and five other players to the St. Louis Browns for Buck Newsom and three others, the Tigers had won only one of 11 games since May 1.

So the double damper they slapped on the Browns, 14-4 and 7-4, yesterday may have made some of their future foes tremble.

Newsom is a workhorse who pitched 330 innings for the Browns last year and won 20 games. With Tommy Bridges and a renovated Schoolboy Rowe he made Detroit three good pitching numbers backed by Archie McKain, Al Benton and Dizzy Trout as added starters who have a chance of clicking.

Roy (Beau) Bell is a good defensive outfielder who batted .344 in 1936 and .340 in 1937. Even last season when he slumped to a .262 percentage he brought home 84 runs.

Ralph Kress, 32-year-old shortstop who hit .302 last year, and Fitcher Jim Walkup were the other Detroit acquisitions. Both Bell and Kress were pressed right into the Tigers' lineup yesterday and bagged hits in each game.

To get this quartet the Tigers gave up Kennedy, a pitcher who won his first nine starts last year and then lost nine of his 12 decisions during the remainder of the season as well as his first two this year: Roxie Lawson, George Gill and Bob Harris, who between them have won two and lost three games to date; infielder Mark Christman and Outfielder Chet Laabs.

Ruffing Wins

In the other American league games Red Ruffing shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 10-0, four hits and the slugger on his fellow New York Yankees for his fifth victory without defeat; young Bob Feller won his sixth game against one defeat, beating the Chicago White Sox, 9-4, on six hits, and the Boston Red Sox out-rallied the Washington Senators, 5-4 in the 12th inning, with Lefty Grove getting credit although removed in the 12th.

Carl Hubbell made his 1939 bow as a starting pitcher and beat the Phillies, 2-1, when Pinchhitter Ken O'Dea homered in the ninth. Lou Fette, the Boston Bees' ace, chalked up his fifth win against one set-back by shutting out Brooklyn, 1-0. The Pittsburgh Pirates cuffed their Chicago Cubs' jinx, 5-2, and the first place Cardinals blasted five Cincinnati pitchers for a 9-5 victory.

LADIES' LEAGUE PLANS BANQUET

Women Bowlers To Have Dinner at Homeworth Wednesday Night

Women bowlers of the Masonic Ladies league will get together Wednesday night for their annual banquet and the closing business meeting of the 1938-39 season.

Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock at the Willard House in Homeworth. A short business session will follow. Ladies desiring transportation are asked to call either Mrs. Esther Miller or Mrs. Dolores Covert.

A feature of the banquet will be the awarding of prizes for the 1938-39 season. Officers for next season will be elected.

Loses Left Leg In Racing Spell

LANGHORNE, Pa., May 15.—Racing Driver Bud Henderson of Akron, O., his left leg amputated, faced the end of his speedy career today as a result of injuries suffered at the opening of the Langhorne track yesterday.

Henderson, 34, was reported in critical condition at nearby Bristol, Pa. hospital, where his leg was amputated below the knee. He also suffered internal injuries when his car overturned.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Various Spots

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 15.—The wolves are howling on the doorsteps of Francis Schmidt of Ohio State, Del Baker of Detroit and Oscar Vitt of Cleveland. Billy Conn will be brought back here for a July fight against either Mello Bettina or Fred Apostoli.

The Portland ball team certainly looked good charging that one-armed umpire on the Pacific coast the other day. Real feud in the National league is between Doc Prothro and Charlie Dressen. What those guys are saying about each other can't be printed in this album of song.

The fellow who umpired that game out at Wichita the other day between the Shriners and Knights of Columbus for a trophy offered by a Jewish merchant was named Paul Fair. Connie Mack says night baseball will be accepted throughout the major leagues within three years. Helen Willis Moody will call her mystery story "Death Serves an Ace."

Optimistic Bill

What they say: Bill McKeechie: We're pretty good now, but we're going to get a lot better. Barney Ross: I can't get over the thrill of realizing I'm finally out of and done with boxing. Bill Terry: This is a screwball race, so I don't get surprised if I say that of all the teams the Phils have looked the best.

Columbia vs. Princeton here Wednesday will be the first baseball game covered by television. Texas Christian and Wisconsin are almost ready to announce a football series. Texas Christian also is flirting with Minnesota.

Monty Stratton sent "appreciation cards" to all who wrote him about his accident. Bergen County, N. J., has come up with a 2-year-old roller skating star who can do figure skating steps at an age when most kids can hardly walk.

FOUL TIP HITS ACE'S MOTHER

Mrs. Feller Is Struck By Ball While Watching Son Pitch

CHICAGO, May 15.—Mother's day was one of sadness and joy for young Robert Feller, fireballer of the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff.

His mother, Mrs. William Feller, came from the Van Meter, Ia., home yesterday to watch Bobby pitch against the White Sox. But she saw less than three innings of the game.

Chicago's third baseman, Marvin Owen, fouled one of Bobby's speed balls into the first base line boxes. The ball struck Mrs. Feller, one of 28,000 spectators, in the head and broke her glasses. The shattered glass inflicted a deep cut above her nose and right eye.

Max Weisman, Cleveland's trainer, gave Mrs. Feller emergency treatment, sent her to a hospital and then assured Bobby the injury wasn't serious. Young Feller went on to finish the game, registering his sixth victory of the season.

Take Six Stitches

Six stitches were required at Mercy hospital to close the deep cut. Hospital attendants said their examination revealed no skull fracture or broken bones. Nevertheless X-rays were planned for today as a precautionary measure.

As soon as the game was over young Feller went directly to the hospital. Another visitor in her room shortly after the accident was Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Feller's father and sister, Marguerite, 10, were sitting with Mrs. Feller when she was struck by the ball. They came to the game with several hundred other Iowa residents. Fans from Burlington presented the youthful pitcher a portable radio.

Preakness Victor May Avenge Sire

NEW YORK, May 15.—Death cheated Challenger II out of his chance for the Ascot Gold Cup back there in 1928, but the famous sire of blue-bloods may have his revenge next year with his gallant son, the mud flur, Chalcedon.

As the result of his victory in the Preakness Saturday, owner W. L. Bram is thinking of taking Chalcedon to England this fall to ready him for the 2½-mile classic in June, 1940.

REDS' MANAGER SEEKS RELIEF FOR PITCHERS

McKechnie Wants Assistance For League's Best Hurlers

CINCINNATI, May 15.—The manager of the "greatest pitching staff" in the National league was looking today for a veteran relief hurler to pull the Reds out of the pinches, just one month after the start of the baseball campaign.

After using an assortment of five hurlers in a vain attempt to stave off defeat by the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday, Will McKechnie took advantage of an idle day to look around for an experienced fireman. He planned a conference with Gen. Manager Warren C. Giles to see what could be found.

The skipper released the veteran Jim Weaver to the Louisville Colonels last week, leaving the team without an old campaigner. In the last eight games, the Reds have lost five and from three to five hurlers have tried to turn back the enemy.

Fail Sunday

The staff of five yesterday failed to save the day as the pace-setting Cardinals took the game, 9 to 5.

Whitely Moore started and was taken out for a pinch hitter in the fifth after he gave up three hits. Miscoes by Bill Werber and Billy Myers accounted for two tallies. Ray Davis came to his aid and pitched to three batters, all getting on with safe blows. Paul Deringer came to the scene and lasted two innings. Naktienis who hit the first two batters he faced, and Thompson finished out the contest.

The Gas Housers put on three-run rallies in the sixth and seventh, at the expense of Davis and Derringer.

Ernie Lombardi hit his third homer in the seventh and Harry Craft hit a round-tripper with a mate aboard in the ninth. The win was credited to Lon Warneke, who was taken out in the last inning rally. Curt Davis came on to retire the next three men.

Cleveland Team Tops Placencia

A five-run uprising in the fifth inning helped the Cleveland White Sox Negro team to nose out Lake Placencia's strong semi-pro club, 6-5, in an extra-inning game at the lake diamond yesterday.

The Cleveland team pushed over the winning run in the tenth inning after the game had been extended into extra frames when the score was tied at 5-5 at the end of the ninth stanza.

Ted Schwartzhoff of Placencia and Smith of Cleveland slapped homers to lead the hitting.

The summary:

Cleveland . . . 000 050 000 1-6 10 3

Placencia . . . 000 113 000 0-5 8 2

Batteries—Hoffman and Schopfer and Drakulich for Placencia; Powell and Boone and Ponder for Cleveland.

Six-Day Bike Race Starts At Garden

NEW YORK, May 15.—On the theory that folks who will spend a week sitting on a hard seat or standing in the infield to watch a bunch of cyclists go around in circles don't care much about the time of year, the six-day bike riders move into Madison Square Garden tonight for their semi-annual spree.

It's the latest race ever run in New York, but the usual late winter dates were taken this year by ice carnivals and hockey. There are a couple of other innovations, such as starting on Monday night instead of Sunday and admitting women spectators free every afternoon up to Saturday.

Columbia Stars Remain In Lead

Posting their fourth straight victory against no defeats, Columbia's hard-hitting softball stars continued to lead the Mickey McGuire league by trouncing Fourth Street, 7-2, Saturday.

Relly remained close on the heels of the leaders by defeating St. Paul, 6-5. It was the third win in four games for Relly.

McKinley gained its second victory in four games by nosing out Prospect, 12-11.

Two Killed In Plane Crash

(By Associated Press)

A sensational airplane crash at Bucyrus, in which two lives were lost, headed Ohio's weekend list of fatal accidents.

Pilot Ralph Walcutt, 34, manager of the Bucyrus airport, and Raymond Hannum, 26, gasoline station operator of Upper Sandusky, plunged to their death when a wing of their light plane tore apart during a power dive. The plane fell about 600 feet, according to Hannum's cousin, Phil Hannum, who saw the crash.

Three motorists from out of the state were killed in traffic accidents: C. A. Lang, 58, of Franklin,
Pa., in a collision at Youngstown;
James Lyons, 20, of Greenville, Pa., when an auto overturned on the

Gambling Blamed By Double Killer

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 15.—County
Attorney Richard F. Harless said today Robert M. Burgunder, Jr., 22-year-old college student, had made a statement that he shot and killed two automobile salesmen April 29 while they lay bound at his feet in an Arizona desert.

The youth was brought here last night from Johnson City, Tenn., where he was captured last Sunday.

Harless and Sheriff Lon Jordon, who returned Burgunder, said he related the complete story of the crime to them after he had finished eating dinner last night at Globe, Ariz.

Later he told the same story to a court reporter here and then signed:

"I'm glad it's over."
"I haven't any guts," the officers quoted him as saying. "I never had enough guts to stop gambling, to stop playing those damned slot machines, marble boards and poker game machines. They kept me broke."
